

Jennifer Campbell

Vice President of Human Resources

Jenn Campbell is the Vice President of Human Resources at NMG, where she provides strategic direction and leadership for the company's human capital and talent management initiatives. She leads a team focused on talent development, team member engagement, change management, succession planning, and performance and compensation management. Throughout her tenure at NMG Jenn has led the implementation of an HRIS system, driven the transition from fully-insured medical benefits to self-insured, and worked to develop a strong talent pipeline with activities such as Career Ready Tempe and our Emerging Leaders Program. Jenn is deeply committed to cultivating a positive, high-performance workplace culture and developing talent to drive organizational success.

Before joining NMG in February 2007, Jenn earned a Bachelor of Science with honors in Management and Marketing from California State University, Chico. She began her career in Southern California, holding various human resources roles in manufacturing at Sony Electronics and later at Tempo, a division of Textron. Jenn is a certified trainer and coach with a strong passion for organizational development in the manufacturing sector. She holds both SPHR and SHRM-SCP credentials.

Originally from Massachusetts, Jenn relocated to Arizona in 2007. Outside of work, Jenn is passionate about community service and animals and has volunteered in dog rescue for nearly 20 years. She enjoys spending time with her family and volunteering through her local church.
